His Love on Display
Joni Lamb

I thank God for restoring my marriage. After contacting Daystar for prayer, my husband recommitted his life to Christ, and we are growing together through church, Bible study, prayer, and watching Daystar. Thank you for the prayers and God's Word that carried me through a very difficult season.

GRACE CHANGES EVERYTHING

with Creflo Dollar

Grace often gets misunderstood as a passive doctrine. You talk about it being a transformative power. How does grace actively change someone from the inside out?

CD: When you talk about grace, you're not talking about a subject, you're not talking about a curriculum, you're talking about a person: Jesus. When you encounter Jesus and embrace Him, He will change your life. The Bible says, "He will give you the desire to do what pleases Him." Think about that. The more you see Jesus, the Bible says you're going to be changed into that very image. So remember, it's not doctrine or curriculum. Grace is a person: Jesus, full of grace and truth. And that makes all the difference in the world.

You write that many believers are unknowingly trapped in a performance-based gospel. What are some signs someone might be living under legalism instead of grace?

CD: If you feel like you have to strive in order to get what God has already made available to you, that is a tell-tale sign that you are still operating under the law of Moses. If you find yourself depending more on your self-effort than you depend on the fact that you can participate in what Jesus has already done, that's a sign that you are probably still under the law. If you're still living your life feeling like, "I have to do this for God to do that." For example, "I've got to be good in order for God to be good to me." We know that God's not good to you because you are good – God is good because God is good! And your union with Christ allows you to participate in His goodness. So, if you're always trying to qualify or earn what God has already given you as a gift, you're still operating under the law of Moses.

Some people feel that too much teaching on grace will lead to compromise. Why do you believe grace actually leads to greater holiness and obedience?

CD: First of all, understand that when we talk about grace, we are talking about Jesus. We're not talking about compromise; what we're talking about is the fact that the grace of God sets you free in your soul. You begin to recognize that He's not condemning you or shaming you; it's not over when you mess up. This is a journey, and on this journey, God is developing you. God is maturing you. It's such freedom to realize there's no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus. It's freedom to realize that God loves you, forgives you, will help and develop you, will keep you from falling, and all of these things that you didn't know God would do because you were so busy trying to do it on your own through self-effort. It's important to recognize that the grace of God is not going to lead you into loose living. The Bible says that we're no longer under the law, but we are under grace. Sin won't have dominion over you under grace, but sin does have dominion over you under the law. Grace doesn't produce loose living; grace is not a license to sin. You don't need a license to sin; you've been sinning lifelong. Grace is not the path into sin; it's a way out of sin.

How did embracing the message of grace change your approach to ministry and help you lead your church today?

CD: My approach to ministry was under the law that said you have to do this in order to get that. You have to strive and sweat and deserve in order to ever see it. People were just not getting that. I saw people would rather just quit altogether than to rejoice over what Jesus really did. I asked myself a question, "Why are we celebrating Jesus on Easter?" If He set us free from our sins, and then I go back and preach that you have to work hard to get freedom, you're going to have to sweat to get every gift that God left for you. And a gift is supposed to be something that is free.

If I have to do in order to be saved, then salvation is not a gift. I just got so tired of passing by the contradictions and not dealing with them when I saw people sweating, suffering, and walking in shame and condemnation. The grace of God is the only thing that can set you free. It set me free. It set people I know free—my staff, my church—once we began to learn about the liberty and gifts that came by the blood of Jesus and how the Holy Spirit helps you to do things you can't do on your own. We forget to factor in the Holy Spirit. He makes the difference. You can get out of the way and let the Holy Spirit get in the way. Once you learn how to yield, you see the difference in the life of the church, in your family's life, and even in your own individual life. I am a witness.

What surprised you the most as God began to reveal the true depth of His grace to you?

CD: What surprised me the most is the fact that He had already finished everything that I was trying to finish. I was shocked to know that what He was asking from me was to believe, embrace, and align myself with the finished works. In John 19:30, Jesus said, "It is finished." So, I have learned how to live in the land of the finished instead of the land of trying to work to get it finished. The shocker was that Jesus did it all, and because of that, my starting line is now the finish line.

I'm not going from misery to victory. I'm going from victory to victory. I'm not going from sickness to healing. The starting line for me is healing. I believe I am already healed, so I'm making confessions, not to make what Jesus has already done "true," but in order to agree and line myself up with the finished works of Jesus Christ. The fact that it's all a gift—salvation is a gift, faith is a gift, grace is a gift, righteousness is a gift—and He's just asking me to receive it, embrace it, and align myself with it—wow. He really, really loves mankind.

If there's one truth about grace that you wish every believer could fully grasp and never forget, what would it be?

CD: The truth that grace is a person. The truth that we're not just dealing with some principle. We are dealing with Jesus. And when people say to me, "I have a problem with grace," I just think they have a problem with Jesus. Because He is so deep, so wide, so high, that it's just amazing to develop a relationship with Him and to behold Him. You're going to be changed in a moment. You're going to be changed. To me, that's what grace is.

GRACE IS A PERSON: JESUS... AND THAT MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE IN THE WORLD.

The Transformative Power of Grace

What if the breakthrough you've been praying for wasn't found in trying harder—but in understanding grace more deeply? In his life-changing new book, The Transformative Power of Grace, Pastor Creflo Dollar invites readers to experience the true, freeing, and empowering grace of God—not just as a concept, but as the very foundation of victorious living.

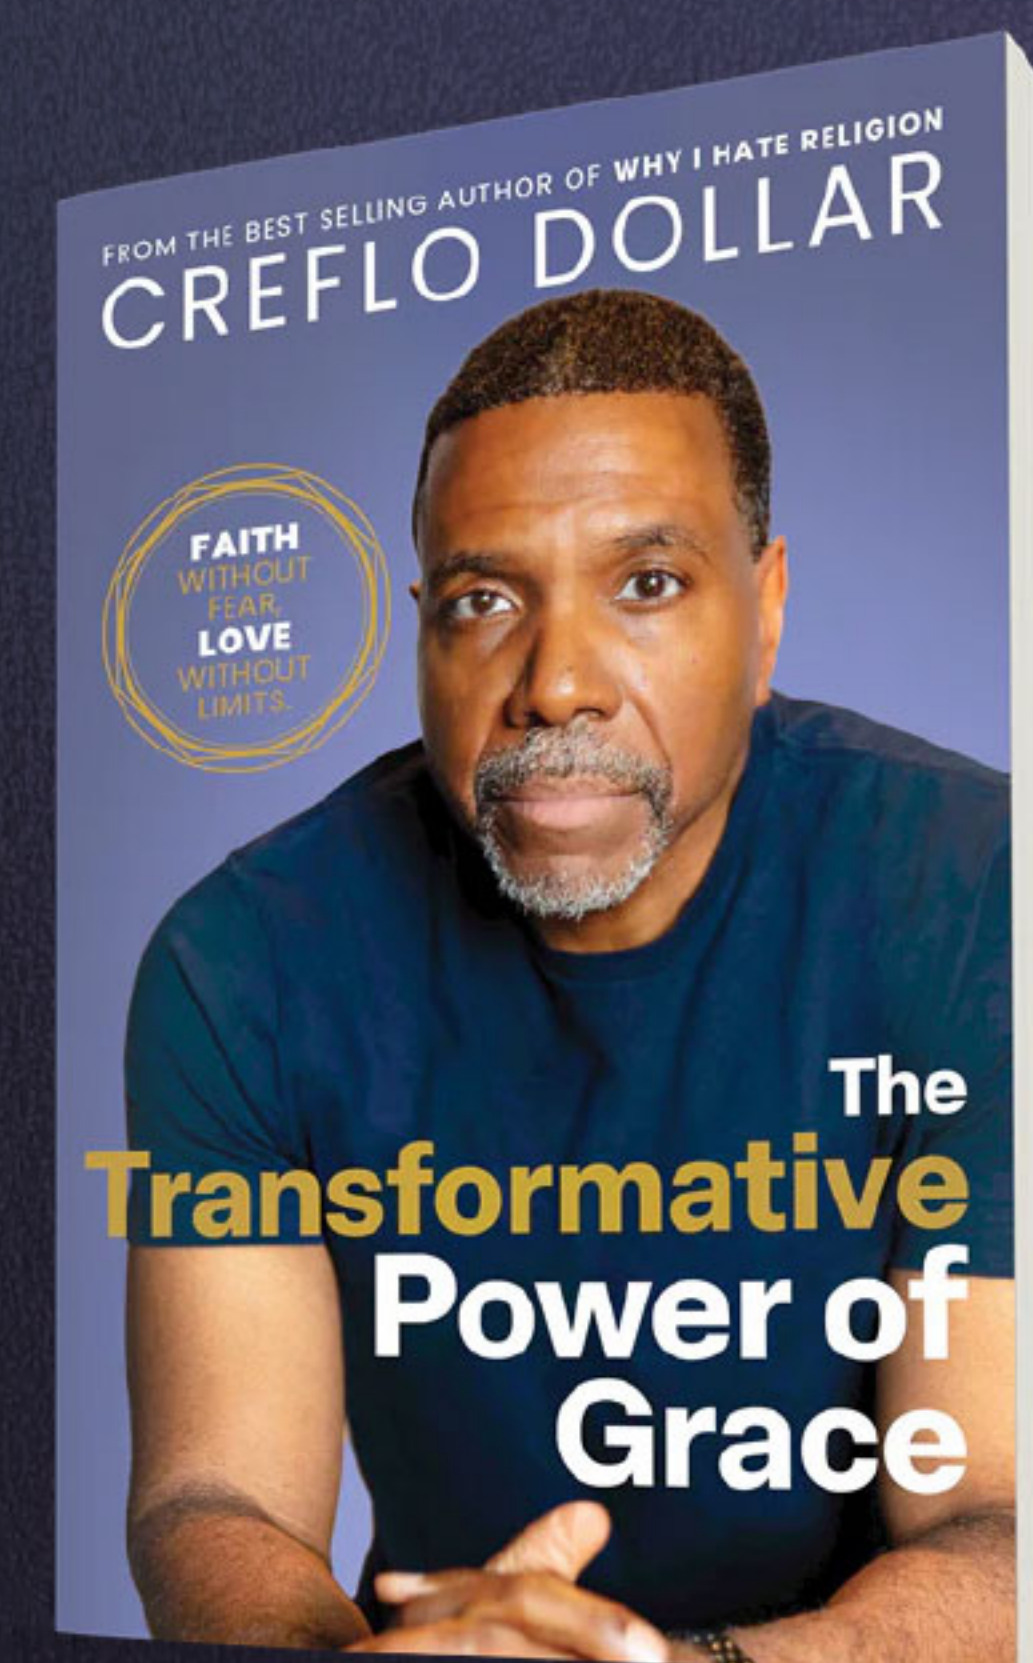

Many Christians carry the weight of guilt, striving, and performance, not realizing that God never intended for them to walk this journey alone or in their own strength. In this powerful resource, Pastor Dollar breaks down what grace really means, how it's different from works-based religion, and how it radically reshapes the way we see God, ourselves, and others.

Through Scripture-based teaching and transparent storytelling, he explores how grace impacts every area of life—your identity, your relationships, your ability to forgive, and even your peace in the middle of storms. You'll discover that grace isn't just the starting point of salvation. It's the very fuel of the Christian life.

A letter from our President

JONI LAMB

Dear Partner

February is often known as the month of love, and it's such a beautiful reminder of where our lives truly begin and are sustained: in the love of God. Scripture tells us in Ephesians 3 that we are to be "rooted and grounded in love." I love that picture. When our roots go deep into His love, we are steady, secure, and able to grow no matter what season we are in.

God's love is not fragile or fleeting; it is the foundation that holds us when life feels uncertain and the source that refreshes us when we are weary. When you truly know you are loved by God, it changes everything. It brings peace into anxious places. It brings confidence where there was fear. And it gives us joy that does not depend on circumstances.

And that love doesn't stop with us. His love is the very reason we exist as a ministry! We reach the world because He first loved the world. And every time the Gospel goes into a new nation, a new home, or a new heart, it is His love on display.

That's why I'm so excited to share some powerful network news with you. Daystar and Daystar Español have recently launched on several major global platforms, allowing God's love to reach millions more people. We are now streaming worldwide on Distro TV reaching over 17 million monthly users, and on Rakuten available across 42 countries in Europe to more than 22 million monthly users. We've also launched on Vodafone in Portugal, reaching 800,000 subscribers.

In addition, Daystar has launched on Astra 23.5E (M7 Group), expanding our reach across Europe to another 1.5 million subscribers. Every one of these doors represents real families and real hearts that can now encounter the love and truth of Jesus.

Thank you for being part of this mission. Your prayers and faithful support are helping us carry God's love farther than ever before. Because of you, the Gospel is being preached, hope is being restored, and lives are being changed across the world.

My prayer for you this month is that you would be deeply rooted in His love, refreshed by His presence, and encouraged by the knowledge that your partnership is making an eternal difference.

With love and gratitude,

Joni Lamb
